an investigative journalist exposes the many holes in today's bestselling behavioral science and argues that the trendy ted talk friendly psychological interventions that are so in vogue at the moment will never be enough to truly address social injustice and inequality with their viral ted talks bestselling books and counter intuitive remedies for complicated problems psychologists and other social scientists have become the reigning thinkers of our time grit and power posing promised to help overcome entrenched inequalities in schools and the workplace the army spent hundreds of millions of dollars on a positive psychology intervention geared at preventing ptsd in its combat soldiers and the implicit association test swept the nation on the strength of the claim that it can reveal unconscious biases and reduce racism in police departments and human resources departments but what if much of the science underlying these blockbuster ideas is dubious or fallacious what if americans longstanding preference for simplistic self help platitudes is exerting a pernicious influence on the way behavioral science is communicated and even funded leading respected academics and the media astray in the quick fix jesse singal examines the most influential ideas of recent decades and the shaky science that supports them he begins with the california legislator who introduced self esteem into classrooms around the country in the 1980s and the princeton political scientist who warned of an epidemic of youthful superpredators in the 1990s in both cases a much touted idea had little basis in reality but had a massive impact turning toward the explosive popularity of 21st century social psychology singal examines the misleading appeal of entertaining lab results and critiques the idea that subtle unconscious cues shape our behavior as he shows today s popular behavioral science emphasizes repairing improving and optimizing individuals rather than truly understanding and confronting the larger structural forces that drive social ills like anand giridharadas s winners take all the quick fix is a fresh and powerful indictment of the thought leaders and influencers who cut corners as they sell the public half baked solutions to problems that deserve more serious treatment complete the agenda in higher education challenge beliefs about student success is a bold call to action to do more than just improve college completion rates this book is for community college board members administrators faculty and staff who also want to 1 foster beliefs that will enable students to finish what they start 2 empower students to overcome daily challenges and real adversity and 3 transform human potential into achievement for a lifetime courageous educators foundations associations and researchers made community colleges better than we were a decade ago completion rates have improved somewhat as a result but too many students still do not finish because the completion agenda is incomplete this book describes compelling reasons why a shift from a completion only mindset to the beliefs agenda completion with grit is critical for the future of america it provides practical implementation methods offers engaging teaching tactics and proposes sensible strategies
